Shelter

We can provide shelter for up to four families at a time for 60-90 days in the Interfaith Hospitality Network. We provide the shelter by partnering with 19 congregations around Albuquerque. These congregations of different faiths convert classrooms into bedrooms for one week at a time. All four families stay at the same congregation and move to a new congregation every Sunday. Meals and transportation for the families are provided by volunteers.

Family Promise of Albuquerque

The mission of Family Promise of Albuquerque(FPA) is to help families who are homeless in the Albuquerque community to achieve sustainable independence. FPA works with family's who are homeless, near homeless or recently exiting homelessness by providing shelter, intensive case management, job search assistance, life skills classes, and supportive services. Our goal is to build a community of support as we empower each family to overcome any barriers they may have to employment or housing.
