Social Outsourcing for Editing

Filipodia Publishing is dedicated to promoting science communication around the world and requires our editors to contribute to the global community by participating in our Corporate Citizenship Program. This program allows authors from economically developing nations (according to the classification set forth by the International Monetary Fund) to receive the full-level of editing service from Filipodia at a reduced cost (69-86% discount according to editing type). In addition, all documents evaluated for authors applying to the Corporate Citizenship Program will be processed with a full waiver of the standard evaluation fee.

Details

Restrictions: 1) Affiliations with an IMF-defined developing country for the First author, and Second author (if the paper has 4 or more authors total) and Corresponding author; 2) Signed "Affidavit of Developing Country Affiliation"
