Assistance for Families after Domestic Violence

We provide a variety of different services to families who are working to create a future after the crisis of domestic violence. Services are located and funded on a case by case basis and families who use our services must agree to not contact abuser outside of parenting plan agreements or safety plan arrangements.

Services such as counseling, child care and legal assistance are paid directly to licensed professionals. For individualized services such as house repair, moving expenses and item purchase we pay organizations directly for the services or items provided rather than paying funds to individuals. Whenever possible we ask victims to cover about 20% of the cost for services provided and we work to increase self-sustained success.

Individuals may use our services for up to 24 months, we may deny services whenever funding is not available to cover the cost of the requested services.
