Native America Calling

Koahnic is highly acclaimed in the field of Native media, with multiple awards from the Native American Journalists Association.

Koahnic's award-winning national radio programs include: Native America Calling, a weekday one-hour live moderated call-in program; National Native News, a weekday 5-minute news feature that has been recognized repeatedly for awards from the Native American Journalists Association; and Earthsongs, a dynamic weekly feature spotlighting contemporary Native music.

National Native News, our daily five-minute newscast, is perhaps the most widely heard minority news program in the country, broadcast by 370 stations in 39 U.S. states, and stations in Canada, Australia and Guam. The program is led by Anchor/Producer Antonia Gonzales (Navajo), recognized as one of 100 top U.S. journalists by UNITY Journalists for Diversity
