Behavioral Health Services

The Behavioral Health Program offers an array of trauma-informed, evidence-based treatment services to address child traumatic stress and promote psychological resilience in children ages 6+. Therapists are skilled at working with children and youth who are struggling with multiple stressors and traumatic experiences. Serving residents in Los Alamos, Santa Fe, Rio Arriba, and Taos Counties.

Our Behavioral Health services remain active. However, we are not currently taking new referrals for children 6-17. We have a very long wait for a therapist, and there are other agencies in the community who are taking new clients with little to no wait times. To help you find a therapist as quickly as possible, please click here for a list of providers.
