

Home Visiting

Home Visiting is a service provided by qualified professionals within the home to parents, prenatally and/or with children birth to age three. Home Visiting programs provide parents with support to enhance the child-parent relationship. With these enhanced skills, parents can create environments that positively impact their child's social and emotional development and prepare him or her for a productive life.

This service includes:

- Assisting families in identifying informal support networks;
- Providing referrals to community resources as necessary;
- Providing information on prenatal health, newborn care and child development;
- Determining if families have been referred to Medicaid;
- Post-partum visits conducted when possible and include assessment of the mothers' well-being, specifically: physical, emotional, social supports, and concrete needs; and
- Guiding families, caregivers and adoptive parents through child developmental curricula.
