May Center for Learning Teacher Training Institute

National statistics show that In a typical classroom of 20 students, a teacher will have at least 4 students who learn differently, yet teachers often do not have the specific training necessary to identify these students and address their needs. Early identification, teacher training and appropriate support resources are key to improving student outcomes. In fact, all students in general education classrooms will benefit from using the strategies and techniques that succeed for students with learning differences. May Center teacher training gives teachers the tools they need to reach all students in their classrooms.

Parent Organization

May Center for Learning

May Center for Learning empowers students with learning differences to be successful, confident learners who recognize the importance of communication, collaboration, and community. We accomplish this goal by focusing on four specific success attributes: Literacy, Empowerment, Advocacy, and Principles.

May Center is also committed to developing the understanding of learning differences within our community by providing information, consultation, and workshops to educators, families, and the greater community of Northern New Mexico.
