

SHARE new mexico™

Food Systems Literacy Program

The National Latino Farmers and Ranchers Trade Association New Mexico Chapter Youth Project is a college preparation and career exploration program that highlights Food, Agriculture, Nutrition, and Human Sciences (FANH) for low-income students. The program features academic year tutoring in STEM, once a month hands-on workshops with educator farmers, and a summer residential program on the main campus of NM Institute of Mining and Technology (NM Tech). FANH sciences or mini courses are offered over a two day period where students study in a college atmosphere and visit nearby attractions such as the VLA.

Details

Ages: Teen

Races: All

Genders: All

Intake Process: Appointment Necessary

Documentation: Proof of income

Payment Options: Free

Special Needs: Abused or neglected

Waiting List: Limited Slots

Minimum Age: 12

Maximum Age: 18

Contact: Frances Ortega

Contact Email: ortega.ft10@gmail.com

Capacity: 30

Services

Food Educational Programs Youth Development Services for Targeted Populations

Locations

Van Buren Middle School

700 Louisiana SE

Albuquerque, NM 87108

Phone: (505) 382-2357

Languages Spoken: English Spanish

Services Limited By Geography: Bernalillo County

Parent Organization

National Latino Farmers and Ranchers NM Chapter

The National Latino Farmers and Ranchers Trade Association (NLFRTA) New Mexico Chapter has a mission to provide educational training and technical assistance to historically underserved (Latino, Native American) farms and ranching advocacy groups transitioning into farm ownership and small producers in New Mexico. NLFRTA provides outreach and technical assistance to ensure the integrity of safe food systems for future generations.

*1415 H St NE
Washington, DC 20002*

Mailing:

*1219 11 th NW
Albuquerque, NM 87104*

Phone: (301) 366-8200

Primary Contact: Rudy Arredondo

Type: Nonprofit

EIN: 84-2237851

<http://www.nlfrta.org>