Navajo Family Voices

We find resources & build partnerships among Diné families, health providers, schools, non-profits, and especially extended families. We also provide direct services in connecting families with resources and have an attorney on staff who can help with legal information. Through family circles, information gathering and sharing, mentoring, and trainings that incorporate Diné cultural practices and principles, we support decision-making of Diné families of children and youth with extra healthcare needs, and foster coordination with healthcare providers.

Navajo Family Voices

?We are families of children and youth with extra health needs, providing help and support to other families on the Navajo Nation. Our family mentors and advocates live on the Navajo Nation and for generations have navigated limited healthcare resources and services to address extra health needs of their own families. Our goal is sustainable and holistic information and support for the empowerment of Diné families of children with extra healthcare needs, that will keep our Diné kids, youth and families in their best health.
