NM Alliance of Health Councils

In early 2011, the New Mexico Alliance of Health Councils was re-established with three goals:

- Establish a unified voice to strengthen and promote the value and services of community health councils, through state and local education and advocacy;
  - Assist the health councils in seeking and obtaining funding to support community health improvement;
  - Build the capacity of all health councils to continue and expand their work, through conferences, training workshops, a newsletter, and web-based information exchange.
