North Fourth Art Center

North Fourth Art Center is a contemporary art center with a social mission. Our center is dedicated to accessibility in the arts for people of all abilities, ages, cultures and income levels. Since 1981, we have focused on providing arts education and exhibition opportunities for adults with developmental disabilities. Day Arts offers visual and performing arts classes in everything from Clay Building and Introduction to Sewing, to Native American Art and Musical Theater. North Fourth Art Center also provides outreach classes in the community as well as evening and weekend programs on site, such as Expressions, an art class for people with mental health concerns, and Arts Adventures, a respite program for children with Autism Spectrum Disorder and their families.
