Resource Center for Victims of Violent Death

In the aftermath of homicide and other violent death, many people do not know where to turn. Our goal is to provide advocacy, support groups, and referrals to services survivors and co-victims of violent death need. We help people find counseling, legal guidance, financial assistance, and help with any other needs they may face. Our services are free and available for any victim of violent death.

Parent Organization

Resource Center for Victims of Violent Death

Our mission is to help the survivors and co-victims of homicide deal with the aftermath of a violent death, by helping them find counseling, legal guidance, financial assistance, and providing any advocacy needed. We bridge the gaps in the availability of information and resources for victims by providing stepping stones for victims to move from a place of vulnerability to a place of positive resolution.
