Rising Stars in the Southwest

Rising Stars is an innovative and unique inside-out self-development process. This research-based approach focuses on three critical elements that promote personal leadership, healthy behaviors, and the skills employers identify as essential. These elements are developed, applied, and reinforced throughout the process and through a follow-up process to strengthen and perpetuate successful behaviors. Attitudes, Skills and Knowledge What role do they play in Positive Behavior Change? Learn with US! This process contains 16 modules and can be delivered in a variety of formats from one semester to a one week program.
