Community Concerts

For seniors who aren't able to attend concerts, The Symphony brings the music to their place of residence with "Senior Serenades." Small group ensembles present informal concerts with a variety of music that touches residents enjoying an active senior lifestyle or those in assisted living or memory care.

We also offer free concerts at the Santa Fe Public Library's Southside Branch. This family-friendly series features Symphony musicians who demonstrate their instruments and play a variety of popular and classical music, fostering a connection with children and providing a chance for them to conduct the ensemble! These concerts are geared toward kids ages five to ten, but all ages are welcome!
