

SHARE new mexico™

Solstice Project

Scientific research of the ancient Pueblo Indian culture with resultant scientific research papers, photographic documentation, and film production.

Details

Services

Arts & Culture

Locations

*222 East Marcy Street, Suite 10
Santa Fe, NM 87501*

Phone: (505) 983-6922

Parent Organization

Solstice Project

The Solstice Project is a non-profit organization dedicated to the study of the rich astronomical heritage of the ancient Chaco culture of the American Southwest. Founded in 1978 by Anna Sofaer, initial efforts focused on the study, documentation and preservation of the Sun Dagger site, a remarkable celestial calendar of the ancestral Pueblo Indians. Subsequent Solstice Project research and films have revealed that the Chaco culture's ceremonial architecture was built to align with the cycles of the sun and moon, and that the elaborately engineered Chaco Great North Road was constructed to commemorate celestial north. Our research continues to enrich studies of archaeology, archaeoastronomy, anthropology and Native American cultures.

*222 East Marcy Street, Suite 10
Santa Fe, NM 87501*

Phone: (505) 983-6922

Type: Nonprofit

EIN: 521185238

<http://www.solsticeproject.org>