Summer Youth Corporation

Summer Youth Corporation runs a summer camp for approximately 50 children each summer who live on and around Navajo Nation. On the surface, the camp is like many other summer camps, providing opportunities for enrichment in sports, arts, music, and culture. Focusing on the tenets of balanced living, the camp day is structured in a way to allow children to develop their physical, social, mental, and reflective skills. All camp activities are good for developing broader definitions of success, but our mission includes a development of sense of self. Camp provides the perfect setting for a multitude of disruptive moments and our staff members are trained to recognize these moments. These are our opportunities to promote positive messaging for children to take into their lives. It is in these moments that children are able to practice the persistence, joy, and camaraderie that will help them to succeed in the bright futures which await each of them.
