Recovery House

This is the first of several scattered houses planned for by TenderLove Community Center for low-income and homeless people in Albuquerque who might otherwise not be housed due to personal history, lack of financial history or other issues.

As a recovery house, residents will have to be drug and alcohol free and follow house rules so that everyone can get along. Regular behavioral health training and AA meetings will be held at the house and at our job training facility, and residents will benefit from a community of peers helping one another.

* In response to the Covid-19 pandemic outbreak and its unprecedented threat to our nation's low-income families and homeless. Since all of us are in this together, the house, originally intended for students in good standing in TenderLove's programs, has been opened to other women in need of a safe place off the streets.
