A Brief History of the American Southwest for Kids

The Children's Hour is producing a six part radio, podcast and curriculum series on the history of the American Southwest for children, in partnership with the Native American Community Academy (NACA), NACA Inspired Schools Network, the New Mexico Center for Anthropological Research, and others.

This program is made possible with the support of the New Mexico Humanities Council and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

This series production begins with "virtual field trips" for students that include expert interviews to better understand each time period.

All field trips are online using Zoom and are live streamed to YouTube.

These field trips are step one in a production of a 6 part curriculum series with accompanying Learn-Along guides that meet national education standards. That series will be released in late November 2022.

THE LAST VIRTUAL FIELD TRIP IS AUGUST 8, 2022 at 10:00am on ZOOM.
