

Business Consulting and Training Services

WESST offers a variety of single and multi-session training and workshops that provide a “deep-dive” approach to learning about key business concepts. Our staff of experts develops a majority of the business curriculum we offer and it’s tailored to the needs of today’s busy entrepreneur. We provide short-cuts and tools that enable entrepreneurs to build their capacity to start and grow a successful business. Our curriculum covers topic areas that include (but are not limited to):

- business planning
- strategic planning
- marketing
- web marketing
- social media marketing
- HR management
- financial planning and analysis

WESST offers one-on-one consultations with on-staff business experts to address specific questions and issues about starting and running a small business. Our consulting services can help you at any stage of your business, from the idea stage to expanding your company. Our experienced counselors can help you with a wide range of topics, including:

- Learning the steps to starting a small business
- Small business banking, accounting, and financial management
- Business planning, including writing a business plan and marketing plan
- Marketing your business, including branding, public relations, website marketing and social media
- HR topics and issues

Sliding scale hourly fees apply for most consulting services.
