

SHARE new mexico™

Wildlife Conservation Society Rocky Mountain Program

Details

Services

Environmental Protection & Improvement

Locations

*314 S. Guadalupe Street, Studio 302
Santa Fe, NM 87501*

Phone: (502) 204-8227

Parent Organization

Wildlife Conservation Society Rocky Mountain Program

The Wildlife Conservation Society (WCS) Rocky Mountain Program envisions developing a new Western conservation paradigm where intact assemblages of native species move across connected wild and working lands at scale, resilient in the face of a changing climate and expanding human footprint, sustained and valued by diverse communities, cultures, and key decision-makers. We draw on science, policy, strategic partnerships, and civic engagement to rewild working and wild landscapes. Our overarching goal is to inform and catalyze the ecological, socio-political, and cultural connectivity needed to achieve large landscape conservation across the American West's matrix of private, public, and Indigenous lands.

*314 S. Guadalupe Street, Studio 302
Santa Fe, NM 87501*

Phone: (502) 204-8227

Primary Contact: Cristina Mormorunni

Contact Email: cmormorunni@wcs.org

Type: Nonprofit

EIN: 13-1740011

<http://www.wcs.org/our-work/regions/rocky-mountain-west>